Investing in Healthier Communities

FOR MORE THAN 80 YEARS, Kaiser Permanente has been committed to improving the health and well-being of the communities we serve. Through our Panorama City and Woodland Hills medical centers, physicians, employees, and community partners, we work to advance health both inside and outside our medical facilities. From addressing housing insecurity and food access to supporting education, workforce development, and mental health, our commitment extends into the neighborhoods where Valley residents live, work, learn, and play.

STRENGTHENING COMMUNITY HEALTH THROUGH STRATEGIC INVESTMENTS

Kaiser Permanente invests more than $1.2 billion annually in community health programs and charitable initiatives across Southern California, supporting charitable care and coverage, health professions education, research, community grants, and programs that strengthen the health of vulnerable populations.

These investments help address housing insecurity, expand access to care, improve mental health services, and create pathways to economic opportunity through partnerships with nonprofit organizations, educational institutions, health care providers, and community leaders throughout the San Fernando Valley.

Notable partnerships include:

- Hope the Mission, supporting efforts to combat homelessness, hunger, and poverty while connecting individuals and families with critical resources.
- Harbor Care Mission Hills, providing medical respite services and supportive care for individuals recovering from illness or hospitalization while experiencing homelessness.
- California State University, Northridge (CSUN), supporting workforce development, community outreach, student engagement, and health education throughout the San Fernando Valley.
- Partnerships with local schools, nonprofit organizations, community clinics, faith-based organizations, and public agencies working together to improve health outcomes across the Valley.

Together, these efforts strengthen the community safety net and improve outcomes for individuals and families across the San Fernando Valley.

ADDRESSING THE SOCIAL DRIVERS OF HEALTH

Kaiser Permanente recognizes that health is shaped by more than medical care alone. Through strategic partnerships and community investments, we help address housing stability, food security, behavioral health, economic opportunity, education, and workforce development.

One example is Kaiser Permanente's Medical-Legal Partnership Initiative, which helps individuals experiencing housing insecurity access legal assistance and support services designed to prevent eviction and maintain stable housing. Kaiser Permanente also supports medical respite programs, including Harbor Care Mission Hills, that provide a safe place for people experiencing homelessness to recover following hospitalization while connecting them to longer-term care and support.

Additionally, Kaiser Permanente partners with organizations that provide nutritious food, behavioral health services, transportation assistance, and family support programs that promote overall well-being and healthier communities.

CREATING PATHWAYS FOR FUTURE HEALTH CARE LEADERS

Preparing the next generation of health care professionals remains a key priority. Kaiser Permanente supports educational programs that introduce students to careers in medicine, nursing, behavioral health, administration, and other health-related fields.

Programs such as the Summer Youth Employment Program provide hands-on experiences for students interested in health care careers, while the Hippocrates Circle Program connects middle school students with physicians and health care professionals who inspire future careers in medicine.

A key example is Kaiser Permanente's partnership with California State University, Northridge (CSUN), one of the San Fernando Valley's largest and most diverse educational institutions. Through collaborations with CSUN Athletics and campus programs, Kaiser Permanente engages students, families, faculty, alumni, and community members through health and wellness activities, educational outreach, volunteer opportunities, and community events. The partnership strengthens community connections while helping inspire future leaders and promote healthier communities.

These investments create opportunities for local students while helping build a skilled and diverse workforce prepared to meet the needs of our communities.

SUPPORTING MENTAL HEALTH AND WELLNESS

Mental health remains one of the most pressing challenges facing our communities. Kaiser Permanente continues to invest in programs and services that expand access to behavioral health care, education, crisis support, and resilience-building resources.

Support includes individual and group therapy, mental health education, digital self-care tools, and partnerships with schools and community organizations that help increase awareness, reduce stigma, and improve access to care. These efforts reflect Kaiser Permanente's belief that mental health is an essential part of overall health and well-being.

LOOKING AHEAD

As community needs continue to evolve, Kaiser Permanente remains focused on advancing health equity, expanding access to care, supporting mental health and wellness, addressing housing and food insecurity, and strengthening partnerships that help communities thrive.

Through strategic investments, community collaboration, volunteerism, and innovative programs, Kaiser Permanente continues to make a positive impact across the San Fernando Valley while helping ensure that individuals and families have the opportunity to live healthier lives.

For 50 years, CCRC has been there for families – growing from a small group of volunteers in 1976 to one of the nation's largest early care and education community resource organizations.

MISSION STATEMENT

The Child Care Resource Center (CCRC) cultivates child, family and community well-being.

SERVICE AREA

Northern Los Angeles County and the entirety of San Bernardino County.

FAST FACTS

- CCRC recently celebrated 50 years of service, building on the vision of healthy and strong children and families living in thriving communities.

- The agency currently serves over 125,000 children, families and child care providers in a service area spanning 22,500 square miles with a staff of 1400 staff.

- The agency manages 15% of the state's total funded child care financial assistance slots supporting 65,429 children and 38,161 families.

- Over the past two years, CCRC facilitated training and technical assistance with over 5,000 child care providers in 174 Trauma Informed Care Trainings, 168 trainings aligned with the California Early Care and Education Competencies, and 3,958 technical assistance interactions with Family Child Care and Family, Friend, and Neighbor caregivers.

GREATEST IMPACT IN 2026

CCRC helped preserve 146,000 subsidized child care slots codified in the prior budget year with the final FY27 California state budget while adding 22,000 child care spaces statewide and a cost-of-living adjustment for provider rates.

IMPACT, PRIORITIES & WAYS TO ENGAGE

What is the greatest need or challenge your organization is working to address right now?
Families facing financial hardship, child care assistance, and other challenges often struggle to navigate multiple agencies to get what their families need. CCRC's Family Resource Center brings child care assistance, early learning, home visiting, mental health support, parent workshops, food and critically needed items together under one roof. Your gift keeps the doors open and makes the next family's first step easier.

What are your top priorities for the year ahead?
Our Strategic Plan goals for 2024-2029 include:
1) Connect children and families to the right services at the right time.
2) Build the capacity of the people, organizations and groups that impact child, family and community success.
3) Increase and align public investments for the child/whole family services.
4) Advance agency growth and sustainability through economic investments, administrative excellence, and financial responsibility.

Where can philanthropic support make the greatest difference?
1) Flexible, unrestricted operating support. Investments in infrastructure, staff development, or the work of adjusting to policy changes. Unrestricted gifts let leadership put money where the need is greatest.
2) Workforce and provider quality. Providers are the foundation of the whole system. Philanthropy can fund things public contracts often don't: retention stipends, scholarships for credentials, coaching for family child care providers, and start-up support for new home-based programs, especially in areas with few options.
3) Basic needs for families. CCRC distributes food and essential items, and that work is rarely fully covered by public dollars. Donated funds can fill the gaps for families who earn too much to qualify for assistance but still can't afford care.

How can companies and business leaders get involved?
Join our Board of Directors. CCRC's talented and diverse Board of Directors provides guidance, oversight and support to the organization. Each Director brings a unique set of skills and collectively ensures fiduciary responsibility, builds a strong public standing, creates a strategic agency vision and provides oversight of programs and services.
Participate in our Holiday Book and Toy Drive. The agency distributes close to 10,000 items for children and families during the holiday season. Host a collection bin or make a donation.

What is one thing you wish more people understood about your organization or the community you serve?
Why our work matters:
Child care is economic infrastructure as much as a family service. Parents can work and study. Our programs allow parents go to work and attend school, contribute to the economy, and strengthen their families and communities.
Early childhood shapes later outcomes. Quality care and early learning affect school readiness and long-term social and economic success.
It supports providers, not just families. Training, coaching, and workforce development raise quality across the whole child care system.
It works at the regional and state level. The research and policy work extends CCRC's influence beyond the families it serves directly.

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

There are multiple Family Play Days throughout the year. These large-scale events are held in multiple locations. Volunteer opportunities for singles or large groups are available.
On-site opportunities include our Family Basic Needs Center, which distributes food and critically needed items.

We offer group activities to assemble our Milestones and More Family Play Kits that are bilingual and designed for newborns and toddlers.

GIVING OPPORTUNITIES

- Family Basic Needs Center: Nutritional and essential items for families and care providers.
- The Michael Olenick Ph.D. Scholarship Fund: Awards for CSUN scholars in the Master of Arts in Early Childhood Educational Psychology Program.
- What A Difference A BOOK Makes: Age-appropriate books with corresponding learning activities.

Celebrating 50 years of cultivating child, family, and community well-being.

Child Care Resource Center's 50th Anniversary Gala brought together community leaders, partners, supporters, friends, and staff to recognize those who have helped build this incredible legacy. From what started as a handful of volunteers turned into a resource for 125,000 children, families, and child care providers monthly across our 22,500 square mile service area of Northern Los Angeles and San Bernardino Counties.

Together we raised over $250,000 which will support the following CCRC initiatives:

Family Basic Needs Center: Nutritional and essential items for families and care providers.

The Michael Olenick Ph.D. Scholarship Fund: Awards for scholars in the Master of Arts in Early Childhood Educational Psychology Program at California State University, Northridge.

What A Difference A BOOK Makes: Age-appropriate books with corresponding learning activities.

We look forward to building the next 50 years.

Independent Rating or Accreditation
We are proud to have earned our 2026 Top Rated Great Non Profits Badge. We also have received the CANDID GOLD Transparency badge for 2026.

GREATEST IMPACT IN 2026

Golden Heart Ranch (GHR) creates opportunities for young adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities to live fuller, more connected lives. From our 22-acre Ranch in Agoura Hills, we provide innovative programs that build independence, confidence, friendships, vocational skills and a true sense of belonging.

Our "Best of Both Worlds" model combines meaningful Ranch-based programming, including gardening, animal care, cooking, fitness, art, music and daily living skills, with frequent experiences throughout the greater Los Angeles community.

Some of our most meaningful moments this year came from helping Ranchers find new ways to communicate and be heard.

Through expanded communication opportunities, individuals who have had thoughts, feelings and personalities locked inside for years are increasingly able to express themselves. One Rancher, at age 32, was able to tell his mother "I love you" for the first time.

These moments represent what GHR is ultimately about: seeing the person, recognizing their potential and creating opportunities for them to participate more fully in their own lives.

At the same time, GHR continued to expand vocational experiences, community integration, health and wellness programming and opportunities for Ranchers to build the skills and relationships that contribute to greater independence.

IMPACT, PRIORITIES & WAYS TO ENGAGE

What is the greatest need or challenge your organization is working to address right now?
For individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities, opportunities can decline dramatically after they leave the school system. Friendships, structured activities, vocational training and community connections can suddenly disappear. Golden Heart Ranch is working to change that trajectory.

What are your top priorities for the year ahead?
In 2027, GHR plans to serve more Ranchers while continuing to strengthen our Best of Both Worlds model. Priorities include expanding vocational and communication opportunities, increasing community-based experiences, and investing in the staff, transportation and infrastructure necessary to support responsible growth.

Where can philanthropic support make the greatest difference?
Support directly strengthens the programs that give Ranchers greater independence, purpose and connection from vocational gardening and animal care to health and wellness, communication, life skills and community outings. Funding also helps GHR maintain the trained staff and reliable transportation that make these experiences possible.

How can companies and business leaders get involved?
Individuals, companies and foundations can support general operations, underwrite programs, sponsor community experiences and events, fund transportation and capital needs, or make unrestricted gifts that allow GHR to respond where the need is greatest.

What is one thing you wish more people understood about your organization or the community you serve?
The need for friendship, purpose, growth and belonging doesn't end when a young person with a disability leaves the school system. In many ways, that's when the need becomes even greater. At Golden Heart Ranch, we believe adulthood should be the beginning of new possibilities, not the end of them.

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

Companies can make an extraordinary difference through corporate giving, sponsorships, employee volunteer days, in-kind contributions, professional expertise and vocational partnerships. Corporate groups can volunteer together on meaningful Ranch projects involving our gardens, animals, facilities and special events.

GIVING OPPORTUNITIES

Individuals, companies and foundations can support general operations, underwrite programs, sponsor community experiences and events, fund transportation and capital needs, or make unrestricted gifts that allow GHR to respond where the need is greatest.

New Horizons Annual Run Walk

To advance the rights and life choices of individuals within the neurodiverse community and their families through a broad range of high-quality, innovative and personalized services.

SERVICE AREA

Services are delivered across urban communities throughout Los Angeles County and Ventura County as well, helping individuals and families build stability, independence, and long-term opportunities.

FAST FACTS

New Horizons serves nearly 1,700 unduplicated individuals each year, beginning at age 16. The population includes transition-age youth, working-age adults, and seniors with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) who face significant obstacles to employment, transportation, healthcare access, and meaningful social connection. The majority of individuals served are low-income and rely on public systems or family caregivers for basic needs.

GREATEST IMPACT IN 2026

The merger with The Campbell Center, now a division of New Horizons, has had a significant impact on our organization and our Members this year. It has expanded our reach into the Glendale and Burbank communities, increased access to services and opportunities, and strengthened our ability to meet growing community needs. Bringing our organizations together has created new opportunities for collaboration and growth while allowing more individuals and families to benefit from the programs and support of New Horizons.

IMPACT, PRIORITIES & WAYS TO ENGAGE

What are the greatest needs or challenge your organization is working on to address right now?

At a time of unprecedented growth and change in the disability services system, New Horizons is facing a critical challenge: meeting the growing demand for high-quality, community-based services while navigating shifting public funding and increasing costs.

More individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) and their families are seeking opportunities for employment, independence, community connection, and meaningful participation; but available resources do not always keep pace with that need. As a trusted provider with more than seven decades of experience, New Horizons is committed to ensuring that individuals and families have access to the services and supports they need to thrive.

Our challenge and our opportunity are to sustain and expand these services while building the capacity and resources necessary to meet growing demand. With a proven record of impact and a clear vision for the future, New Horizons is well positioned to help lead the next chapter of community-based support for individuals with I/DD across Los Angeles County. Continued philanthropic support is essential to making that possible and ensuring that the individuals and families who count on New Horizons are not left behind.

What are your top priorities for the year ahead?

In 2027, New Horizons will focus on growing philanthropic support, deepening donor engagement, and increasing community awareness of our impact. We will strengthen relationships with current supporters while expanding our base of individual, foundation, and corporate donors. And we look forward to increasing the number of volunteers that play an important role in what we do.

Through compelling storytelling and meaningful opportunities to connect with our mission, we will inspire greater investment in New Horizons and help sustain and expand services for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities and their families.

Where can philanthropic support make the greatest difference?

One of the greatest opportunities for impact is helping young people with intellectual and developmental disabilities successfully transition from special education to adulthood. As students age out of special education, many face a "service cliff"—losing access to structured support, employment pathways, and other resources at a critical point in their lives. Without early intervention, this can lead to unemployment, isolation, and greater reliance on public systems.

New Horizons is seeing growing demand from Los Angeles County school districts for transition and youth services, including support for students at younger ages. Philanthropic investment can help us respond to that demand by expanding early intervention, career preparation, and pathways to competitive, integrated employment.

How can companies and business leaders get involved?

Companies can make an especially meaningful impact through corporate sponsorships, employee giving and matching programs, in-kind contributions, and no-cost employment partnerships that create opportunities for individuals with I/DD in the workplace.

What is one thing you wish more people understood about your organization or the community you serve?

For more than 70 years, New Horizons has met our Members where they are, delivering the programs, services, and opportunities that help them find their place and thrive in our communities.

GIVING OPPORTUNITIES

There are many meaningful ways to support New Horizons and create greater possibilities for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Individuals, foundations, and companies can support specific programs and priorities, through a range of smart and strategic giving options, including Donor-Advised Funds (DAFs), qualified charitable distributions (QCDs) from IRAs, gifts of appreciated stock and other securities, matching gifts, planned and estate gifts, and multi-year commitments. All these options can provide meaningful philanthropic support while allowing donors of any size to give in ways that align with their financial and charitable goals.

The Aquarium of the Pacific's mission is to instill a sense of wonder, respect, and stewardship for the Pacific Ocean, its inhabitants, and ecosystems.

SERVICE AREA

The Aquarium of the Pacific serves communities across Southern California and reaches audiences throughout North America. Our impact extends far beyond our walls to the ocean itself, supporting marine life and ecosystems through animal care, rescue and rehabilitation, conservation, and research.

FAST FACTS

- The Aquarium of the Pacific welcomes approximately 1.5 million visitors annually, connecting people with the ocean and inspiring stewardship.
- Approximately 150,000 students, teachers, and community members receive Aquarium science and environmental education programming each year.

What is the greatest need or challenge your organization is working to address right now?

Our ocean and its wildlife are facing increasing pressures from climate change, habitat loss, pollution, and other environmental threats. At the same time, there is a growing need for organizations that can respond to wildlife emergencies, support species recovery, and inspire communities to understand and protect the environment. The Aquarium of the Pacific is working to meet that need through animal rescue and rehabilitation, collaborative conservation programs, and education that empowers people to care for and protect the ocean.

GIVING OPPORTUNITIES

Individuals, foundations, and companies can support the Aquarium through annual gifts, Adopt-an-Animal, corporate sponsorships, grants, matching gifts, donor-advised funds, stock gifts, and planned giving. Support at every level helps advance animal care, conservation, education, and our work to protect the Pacific Ocean and its inhabitants.

VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

The Aquarium offers volunteer opportunities for individuals, families, teens, and groups. Volunteers contribute throughout the Aquarium through education, guest engagement, animal care support, special events, and conservation activities.

When wildlife needs help, the Aquarium of the Pacific steps in.

Your support of the Aquarium of the Pacific's Rescue & Recovery Fund provides critical care for rescued animals and advances conservation efforts for endangered species.
